

Maras and Moray

1 day – Begin: daily

Over a huge plateau near the Urubamba Valley is located Moray, a unique archeological site with enormous circular terraces build on the natural depressions of the ground. They where used as a prototype of a greenhouse or experimental agricultural station, very advanced for its age.

Near there is Maras, the famous «Inca Salt Mines», with about 3000 small pools constructed in the slope of a mountain. People still use the same extracting methods as 500 years ago. You can make this tour in private group with bike or car.
